

HARVARD-YENCHING INSTITUTE

Fellowship Programs Information Session

For faculty and Ph.D. students in the humanities and social sciences

Friday, May 20, 15:00 - 16:00

Peking University

West Hall, Lin Hu Xuan

As a partner university of the Harvard-Yenching Institute, Peking University can nominate faculty and students to HYI fellowship programs each year. Learn about programs, selection criteria and the application process at the information session on May 20. For more information, please contact the Office of International Relations.

About HYI fellowship programs:

- Visiting Scholars Program: Faculty members undertake 10 months of independent research at Harvard University
- Visiting Fellows Program: Advanced Ph.D. candidates conduct dissertation research at Harvard University for 12 months

Fields of research in the humanities and social sciences to be considered:

- Anthropology
- Archaeology
- History (including art history, economic history and legal history)
- Linguistics
- Literature
- Philosophy
- Politics
- Religion
- Sociology

Scholars in the fields of Economics, Education, Psychology and Law may be considered.