Enhance Your Academic Journey at Stanford

Stanford Summer Session's International Honors Program (IHP) is a selective program that brings highly motivated students to Stanford University's campus from over 20 partner institutions in 16 countries for a challenging eight-week academic and cultural experience.

Participants in IHP are carefully selected by their home universities, enroll in Summer Session with Stanford undergraduates and other visiting students and enjoy the privilege of participating in extracurricular programs designed specifically for them.

Travel

From the historic Stanford campus to San Francisco Bay, the mountains of Yosemite to the beaches of Monterey, your Summer at Stanford will expand your horizons like never before.

Learn

Engage in dynamic classroom experience with world-class faculty and an impressive group of peers. Choose from over 170 courses in 40 academic disciplines. Or immerse yourself in the field of your choice with the Intensive Studies Program.

Connect

The intimate campus community allows you to make lifetime memories with new friends from all around the world, and build your network with professors, scholars, and leaders in Silicon Valley.
